

When to use to and for?

1 - Purpose:

- “To” is used when indicating the purpose or goal of an action.
- “For” is used to express the intended use or beneficiary of an action.

“He wrote the code to fix the bug.” (Purpose: fixing the bug)

“She wrote the code for the client.” (Beneficiary: the client)

2 - Direction:

- “To” denotes movement or direction toward a destination.
- “For” signifies the intended recipient or beneficiary.

“He sent the report to the team leader.”

(Direction: toward the team leader)

“He created a dashboard for the project team.”

(Recipient: the project team)

3- Duration:

- “To” can imply a point in time or a limit.
- “For” denotes a duration or period of time.

“I’ll work on the UI design to complete it by Friday.” (Point in time)

“She’s been coding for six hours straight.” (Duration)

