

2- Fill in the blanks with the appropriate relative pronoun (who, which, that, whose) to complete each sentence.

1. The software _____ I developed last year has been downloaded over a million times.
2. The team _____ won the hackathon last month is now working on a new project.
3. The developer _____ code caused the error has been asked to debug it.
4. The laptop _____ I use for coding is very fast and reliable.
5. The project _____ deadline was extended by two weeks is finally nearing completion.
6. The client with _____ we are collaborating with has specific requirements for the software.
7. The meeting _____ was scheduled for tomorrow has been postponed to next week.
8. The developer _____ you recommended for the project has accepted the offer.
9. The company _____ software we are integrating into our system has provided excellent support.
10. The codebase _____ I am currently reviewing needs some optimization.

