

Here is the list of rules for making a verb into an infinitive:

1. You have the option to add the “how” before “to” in front of the verb if it is used in an expressive or learning way.
 - Example: My brother taught him how to code.
2. Adding “for” in front of the verb and the “ing” at the end if it is used for a reason.
 - Example: My friend received a warning for arriving late at work.
3. Some verbs can be transformed into an infinitive only for direct objects if they are in active voice.
 - Example: My team makes me feel good.

Examples of infinitives:

- Software developers need to code efficiently to meet project deadlines.

- I am waiting the boss to come.

- I love to code in C++.

- Devs may need to attend regular meetings to discuss project progress.

- Tina wants to learn Python.
