3- Tom is a software developer working for a big IT company, and he is going to share a little bit about his job working with his team.

As a software developer, I am responsible for creating and maintaining software applications. My primary focus is on coding and programming. I work closely with a team of developers, and together, we collaborate on various projects.

Use the prompts below to continue talking about Tom's work. Don't forget that he works in a team, so some of the responsibilities he needs to divide with his team workers.

- writing and reviewing code
- conduct testing, identify and fix any bugs or errors
- participate in team meetings
- document code
- face challenges or complex problems
- work with clients or stakeholders
- improve and deliver high-quality software products